

INDIANS WANT HEAVY DAMAGES

Delawares Ask Compensation from Government for Defending Their Title to Lands.

POOR LO'S TROUBLE

Claims His White Brothers Have Not Been as Fair as They Promised.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)

Washington, Sept. 29.—Sensational charges of fraud and irregularities are made against Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock and the members of the Dawes commission in a petition for $1,000,000 damages filed by an attorney for the Delaware Indians with the Court of Claims.

The claim, which followed a decision by the Supreme court of the District of Columbia dissolving a temporary injunction against Secretary Hitchcock and the Dawes commission, is for expenses the Indians have been put to in defending the title to their lands. The decision in the injunction case was handed down by Justice Anderson.

Accuses Dawes Commission.

The case involved the right of the secretary to pass on the 157,000 acres of land in the Cherokee nation segregated for the use of the Delawares. The Indians claimed that the secretary is without authority to approve or disapprove of the segregation, as it had been approved by the Indians interested, and asked that he be enjoined against taking such action pending the adjudication of the same question by the Court of Claims.

In the petition one of the accusations is that members of the Dawes commission are interested in oil leases and companies holding leases made upon their lands by Cherokees who claim title.

Charges Are Serious.

Mentioning the members of the commission by name the petition alleges that notwithstanding the lands have been properly segregated, the "Dawes commissioners, disregarding their official duties as agents of the United States, conspired to cheat and defraud the petitioners to gain possession of their lands for themselves or for the companies."

It is claimed that the members of the Dawes commission have wrongfully, after segregation was made, allowed more than 200 persons not Delawareans to make selections for homes upon parts of the Delaware lands, and have allowed such persons to file applications for allotments.

Allege Unlawful Acts.

The commissioners are charged with having sought, by recommendations contained in their report of April 20, 1903, to the secretary of the interior, to cause steps to be taken to prevent the Supreme court of the United States from rendering such judgment in the case as would confirm the title in the Delawares.

The secretary of the interior is charged with unlawful acts to defraud the Indians, such as that of encouraging white men who have married squaws to make claim to Delaware lands.

BULGARIANS ARE TO BE KILLED

The Decision Is Said To Have Been Reached by Yildiz Kiosk Committee.

London, Sept. 29.—The Times learns from a trustworthy source that the palace committee at Yildiz Kiosk has recommended that all Bulgarians captured in the future shall be shot. It is stated that the sultan holds the same view, and that the necessary orders have been issued. The palace committee consist of Tahsin, Edhem and Izzet pashas. The last named, who only recently became a member, is generally believed to have been largely responsible for the Armenian massacre at Constantinople.

POPE PIUS WILL LEAVE VATICAN

The Recently Elected Pontiff Will Break the Former Rules of Popes.

Rome, Sept. 29.—According to the Tribuna Plus X., on receiving the Monte Cassini in the Campara, said: "We shall soon meet, most reverend father, at Monte Cassini." Remarkable the effect that his words produced — an impression that his holiness would some day leave the Vatican precincts. He added: "Pray, for all things are obtained by prayer." The pope is also said to have told the abbot of the Benedictine monastery at Cava Del Tirreno, near Salerno, that he himself would inaugurate the jubilee of the immaculate conception.

What Our Governors Have Said About Wisconsin.

From Gallant Old Jerry Rusk

Wisconsin has a proud record. Her laws have been wisely made, and have given full protection to all her people. No charge of corruption has ever been made against the law-making power of the state, and our conservative citizenship can justly rejoice in a pure public service.

Governor Rusk.

Our Noble One-Armed Governor Every citizen of Wisconsin can take pride in the growth and development of the state. Wise legislation, placed upon our statute books by men who had at heart only the welfare of the state, has contributed largely to our material development.—Governor Fairchild.

Verdict of a Good Man

It has been the good fortune of our people to have given them wise legislation governing state affairs. Our legislators have had at heart the best interests of all of the people.—Governor Washburn.

But this is what Governor La Follette says:

"The Wisconsin legislature of 1901 was debauched by the lobby of combined federal officials and railroad lobbyists. Almost since Wisconsin became a state, the railroads, with a few politicians have controlled legislation in that state. The railroads have worked their land grants through in that way by what has been shown to be the most corrupt and open bribery."

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

Trolley cars have killed sixty-eight persons in St. Louis this year. A severe electric storm swept over Porto Rico. At Ponce the lightning system was damaged and the city was put in darkness.

Twelve hundred schools in Porto Rico were opened and 60,000 pupils were received. Three times that number of children were enrolled and the struggle for preference was great.

Rev. Truman F. Allen, pastor of the Thirteenth Avenue Methodist church, Minneapolis, Minn., was stricken with apoplexy just as he finished his sermon. In three hours he was dead.

An attempt was made to burn the agricultural building at the St. Louis world's fair. One of the guards observed a man acting suspiciously. The man escaped, although several shots were fired at him. Straw and kindling saturated with oil were found.

The guard around Governor McKelvey's mansion at Lincoln, Neb., has been increased, as it is feared another attempt will be made to steal one of the governor's children. The four smaller children are not permitted to leave the house unless accompanied by an older member of the family.

Thirty leading architects leading from New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago have entered the competition for the building of the $60,000 Carnegie library at Colorado Springs, Col. Rope Stretches and Sheriff Held Dying Man Clear of Floor.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 29.—Peter Lenouskey was hanged here this morning for the murder of Anthony Sennick. The execution was the most gruesome affair in the history of the county. When the trap was sprung the rope stretched fully two feet. The doomed man's toes touched the ground. The sheriff and the deputy grabbed the rope and pulled Lenouskey clear of the ground holding him up until he was dead. Lenouskey was enamored of Sennick's wife and killed Sennick in order to marry the woman.

SMALL BOY CAUSES TROUBLE; SENDS IN FALSE ALARM

Incited to Mischief by Older Boys Opens Box on Mineral Point Avenue.

A useless chase was given the fire department shortly after 9 o'clock this morning when the station at the corner of Mineral Point avenue and Chatham street sent in an alarm. Chief Klein found that a small boy—six years old—had broken the glass, and opened the box and it is believed that he was urged on to causing all the trouble by some older boys. Because of the youth's age nothing was done about the mischief makers.

CENTRAL ISTO BUY SIX LINES

The Illinois Central Will Purchase the Present Roads It Leases, Very Soon.

HAS A GROSS PROFIT

Its Receipts Have Exceeded Forty-Five Million for the Year Just Past.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Six railroad properties which are now operated under lease will soon be purchased by the Illinois Central Railroad company and their mileage added to the total of that system. Notice is given in the fifty-third annual report, which shows gross earnings of over $15,000,000, that a special meeting of the stockholders will be held Nov. 11, when a proposition for the purchase of the following railroad companies will be submitted: Rantoul Railroad company, extending 66.21 miles from Le Roy to the Indiana state line; Illinois and Indiana railroad, 56.50 miles from Effingham to the Indiana state line; St. Louis & Ohio River railroad, 17.20 miles from Reevesville to Galeonda; Christopher and Herrin railroad, 4.89 miles from Christopher to Zeigler; Mounds & Olive Branch railroad, 10.50 miles from Mounds Station to Olive Branch; Groves & Sand Ridge railroad, 17.26 miles, from Groves to Sand Ridge.

Review of Service.

Special attention is called in the annual report to the number of passengers and the number of tons of revenue freight carried by the company during the past fourteen years. These two items added form what is called units of service, and show the service rendered the public. The figures show that during the last fourteen years there has been an increase not only in the units of service rendered to the public, but also in units of service for miles of railroad operated. The service so rendered during the last year was 5,031,975,907 units, as against 1,203,982,725 for the year ending June 30, 1889. The service rendered the public therefore has increased over four-fold and the service rendered per mile of railroad has nearly tripled during fourteen years.

Adds to Trackage.

Portions of the report follow: During the year 66.81 miles of additional second main track were put in service. At its close there were in service 519.60 miles of second track and 87.22 miles of third and other additional main tracks, making together 606.82 miles.

Action was begun in Justice Reeder's court this morning by the owners of the Myers' hotel to recover rent due from the former proprietor, E. W. Johnson, who was obliged to leave because of the proposed changes in management. The latter has put in a counter claim of $5000 for damages to personal property from leaking roofs. Owing to the absence of a material witness, the case was adjourned until the fifth of October. Fethers, Jeffris and Mount represented the plaintiffs and Sutherland and Pierce the defendant.

DULL DAYS WITH
WAREHOUSE MENTOBACCO DEALERS SPEND TIME
SAMPLING.But Elsewhere, Dullness is Now the Prevailing Feature.

The past week was a dull one in the local tobacco warehouses, and save considerable sampling, little or nothing of interest transpired. The frost of the previous week, as was predicted, did little damage and the warm days that followed enabled the growers to get the few outstanding remnants of the crop into the sheds. The hanging tobacco was greatly benefited by the good weather and the danger of shed burn is regarded as over, at least for the present.

At Viroqua a considerable quantity of the leaf was housed under unfavorable conditions, it being deemed necessary in some instances to take it in while it was raining. Under these circumstances some forebodings are entertained as to the outcome when the tobacco matures. Some good sales are reported, the highest being 11 cents.

Dull at Edgerton. No important deals for the new crop were made at Edgerton during the week. A few sales to local dealers were recorded in the Vernon county district at prices ranging from eight to ten cents. The indications for a general movement are not regarded as encouraging.

450 Cases Shipped. The shipments out of storage from the Edgerton market to all points for the week amounted to 450 cases. Considerable inquiry is developing for cured leaf and a number of important trades are under advisement but not closed. A number of out of town buyers are in the state inspecting dealers' samples. Something like 1500s of 1901 tobacco were picked up from packers by H. W. Child during the week. Sampling of the 1902 packings is still going on and the damage found seems likely to cut something of a figure in certain cases. The low grades are especially affected to a larger extent than for some years past.

A Bright Thin Leaf. One of the Edgerton authorities in summing up the situation in this region, says that the past fortnight has brought the first really satisfactory curing weather of the season, with the result that the hanging leaf has been cutting down very rapidly. The early cutting is now very generally cured down to the midrib and affords an opportunity to learn what may be expected of the character of the new crop. The cured leaf promises to be unusually thin and the early portion at least of remarkably bright colors.

Some Shed Damage. Some shed damage has undoubtedly occurred during the prevalence of the bad weather but the extent is not as yet ascertainable. Growers by watching their sheds carefully were able to prevent in many cases serious losses. Danger from this cause has now probably passed as the curing is beyond the stage where these results occur.

To Replenish Holdings. B. Lichtenstein of New York has been called to the state by the Stoughton fire which destroyed the 1902 packing of tobacco put up for his firm. He says the insurance covered only about 80 per cent. of the value of the goods, and his loss will therefore be considerable. He has inspected several packings with a view of replacing the holdings of the firm.

Surveying the Situation. Among the dealers who were in this region to survey the situation last week was E. A. Kerbs of New York, president of the United Cigar Manufacturers who are the second largest producers of cigars in the country. He made a visit at the new plant being erected for his firm at Portage. C. E. Crawford of Philadelphia was at Sun Prairie Tuesday. G. W. Spitzer of New York and Charles Moulter of Buffalo, who was in Janesville Wednesday, were also in the region to size up the crops.

DUCK SHOOTING
GOOD AT LAKEThere Are Plenty of Ducks at Koshkonong This Fall, So Say Hunters.

Duck shooting at Koshkonong promises better results this year than for many seasons past. Of course there are the usual number of hunters to each duck, but Sunday last the reports went out that there were more ducks at the lake for this season of the year than ever before. Teal and mallards are in plenty. The high water does not seem to have affected the earlier flight of birds, although later in the season the lack of food for the south flying fowl may not keep them long at the lake. Shooting was good and several good strings of nice fat juicy fowls found their way onto many a Janesville table as the result of the Sunday sport. One hunter reports having seen a large eagle on his return trip Monday morning but a few miles from town. This is the first eagle seen in this locality for many years past.

Be sure to address Dept. 20 D. Pacific Coast Borax Company, Chicago. It is sold by druggists and grocers.

HAT TRADE IN
THE SANCTUARYCourt Street Gentleman with a New Derby, Got the Worst of the Bargain.

There was at least one resident of Janesville Sunday who missed the spiritual comfort and satisfaction that is wont to follow attendance at divine service Sunday. His home is not far from Court street. At the customary hour and in accordance with his custom he attended a south Jackson street church in the morning. He wore a brand new derby hat and when he had been seated by the usher, placed it carefully under the pew. At the conclusion of the service he reached for the new "bonnet." There was something about the touch that filled him with misgivings. The brim and crown were soft and flexible. He pulled it out and gasped with astonishment and dismay. He held in his hand an old battered derby whose hue was of a billous green, and the worshipper behind him had departed. The Court street man says that if a fellow has to go to church under police protection, he isn't going any more.

ODD FELLOWS IN
THE CONVENTIONProgram at the Baltimore Convention is of Great Interest to All Members of the Order.

The big convention of Odd Fellows which has been meeting during the week just past at Baltimore, has adjourned and the sovereign grand lodge will meet next year in San Francisco. On last Saturday, the chief business transacted was the appointment of standing committees. Among these were:

Rebekah anniversary services—John L. Nolan, Tennessee; William Brown, Idaho; Theron G. Brown, South Dakota. Sub-committee on finance—E. S. Conway, Illinois; F. A. Stier, District of Columbia.

To prepare code of rules and form of procedure governing appeals to sovereign grand lodge—E. H. Seller, Michigan; O. L. Lewis, Ontario; John W. Yantis, Illinois.

There is a large Odd Fellow membership in Janesville and much enthusiasm is always shown. Of the secret societies which have sprung up in this country in the past none have a history of more good deeds than have the Odd Fellows, F. L. T., which is a part of the emblem, are carried out by no order more rapidly than by the Odd Fellows.

The letters stand for Friendship, Love, and Truth, three of the principal precepts of the order.

Odd Fellowship dates its origin back to before the first half of the seventeenth century having been organized in 1745. The order was known by several names before the title, Independent Order Odd Fellows, was selected, the earlier names being, Patriotic Order, Union Order of Odd Fellows, and in 1813 the lodge adopted in England the title of Independent Order Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity.

Odd Fellowship in the United States was begun from the Manchester Unity in 1810, and the grand lodge of Maryland and the United States was constituted Feb. 22, 1821.

At the beginning the progress of the organization was slow, but as soon as it had gained a firm hold its growth was phenomenal, and the society now has more members than any one secret order in the country, and it has extended and branched out until it now has lodges in every quarter of the globe and all of these have for their foundation, the principles of the order which was first called Manchester Unity.

During the last convention the sovereign grand lodge defeated the proposition to admit to membership of the order persons of mixed blood as was also a resolution to grant the patriarchy militant direct representation in the sovereign grand lodge.

A resolution to permit liquor dealers to join the order was defeated. Prices for the exemplification of the degrees, contests for which occurred during the week, were announced to-night. Woodward lodge of Woodward, Ia., took second prize on the first degree, and first on the second degree.

ORDER STREET REPAIRING

At Meeting Last Evening a Committee
Was Appointed to Draw Resolutions on Death of Mr. Ross.

The ordinance introduced by Alderman Lowell at the council meeting last evening will likely be satisfactory to all property owners, except those who possess corner lots, for under the new regulation, the owners of such lots will have to build the intersections between the end of the walks on their ground to the curb. In the past this part of the walks has always been paid for by the city and it is thought that the new ruling will cause various objections to be raised. Alderman Lowell's ordinance will come up for the third reading and passage at the next meeting and then all of the interested parties will be given a chance to state any objections they may have.

That the Janesville Street Railway company should have charge of the road-bed between the tracks of the company and for a certain space outside of the rails, is the opinion of a number of the council. The city has been obliged to do this for many years past and it is thought time for the company to pay for part of the improvement. Alderman Sale introduced an ordinance to this effect which was given its first and second reading and laid over until the next meeting.

Fathers' Communication. City Treasurer James A. Fathers sent in a communication asking that the books of the city might be gone over and checked up to August 1, 1903.

This was referred to the finance committee who later in the evening reported favorably and mentioned Harry Fagart as a suitable person to do the work. It was suggested that he be secured for the job at a price not exceeding $75. There was much discussion regarding the hiring of Fagart, several of the council believed it was unnecessary expense as the finance committee had the treasurer's statement every month. It was also argued that they would not know much more after the work was done than they did now. The question was finally put to vote and lost, the result of the ballot being 6 to 2 against the proposal.

The city engineer's report on the grade of Wisconsin street from North First to Prospect avenue, was received and placed on file.

Leasing Court Room. Aldermen Judd, Matheson, and Murray, and City Attorney Burpee were appointed a committee to see Judge Field regarding the lease of the municipal court room for the coming year beginning October 1.

The petition of C. H. Kueck that he be allowed to put up a frame building at the rear of his meat shop in the Williams block was adversely reported upon.

The council voted seven to one for the purchase of an adding machine for use in the city offices and $185 was allowed for the purpose.

Street Work. The city engineer was instructed to make and file a grade for Linden avenue and a brick crosswalk was ordered on Wisconsin street on the south side of Prospect avenue, a brick iron bound gutter across East street on the north side of Court street and repairs were ordered for bluff street from North Key to the railroad tracks.

McKee boulevard was ordered repaired at a cost not to exceed $40 and a grade was asked to be prepared and placed on file.

Road Between Tracks. Alderman Sale introduced an ordinance to amend and repeal several ordinances that concern the Janesville Street railroad, taking up portions of the street and city and having to keep the space between the tracks in repair. This ordinance calls for the company's planking between the tracks at crossings, for macadamizing where that kind of paving is used and for paving with brick on brick paved streets. The ordinance was given its first and second reading and laid over until the next meeting.

Can Use Hall. After some discussion as to precedent, the Central Wisconsin Medical society was given permission to use the assembly hall for the meeting to be held October 27. A committee of one was appointed to draw up suitable resolutions for the death of Wm. Ross.

Park Walks. Alderman Matheson mentioned that he intended at the next meeting to bring up the question of repairing the tar walks in the courthouse park. A bid on the work had been made and it was found that the walks could be top coated with a tar composition for $101.20, while rebuilding with cement would cost in the neighborhood of $1000.

Portrait Presented. A handsome portrait of Janesville's first mayor, A. Hyatt Smith, has been presented to the city. The picture has been hung in the council room, over the mayor's chair.

Profit in Garbage. The borough of Fulham, London, by the use of its garbage in the furnace of the municipal electric lighting plant, makes a profit of $3,442 a year.

Satisfying London's Appetite. London consumes a quarter of a million tons of fresh meat a year, not counting bacon and tinned meats.

Full reports of all delays at freight terminals are to be sent in.

A furnace man from Mineral Point complained to the railroad men along the tracks this morning that he had been robbed of $5.00 in one of the Pleasant street saloons close by. The man's name was Will Saunders and he was in an intoxicated condition. His plaint was: "Five bucks took o'me" and a large crowd gathered around him.

Railway Notes. The passenger department of the Rock Island railroad has issued instructions to its agents to restore normal rates from Erin, Dundas, Northfield, Castle Rock, Farmington, and Rosemount, Minn., to Chicago. The $8 rate between Chicago and the twin cities, however, is still in force. The towns mentioned are located on that portion of the St. Paul's line which is used by the Rock Island to complete the north end of its Albert Lea route. This action places the Rock Island in the position at present of charging $11.50 for the shorter haul to Chicago from these cities, as against $3 from the twin cities. General comment in railroad circles yesterday was to the effect that the most would be made of this fact before the interstate commerce commission if the Rock Island ultimately refuses to cancel the $8 Chicago-St. Paul rate.

Edward Lauterbach of counsel for Talbot J. Taylor & Co., confirms the report that the suit brought by the latter firm against the Southern Pacific road has been settled. The suit was brought by Talbot J. Taylor & Co. to restrain the stocks of the Southern Pacific held by the Union Pacific Railway company from being voted at the coming meeting of the Southern Pacific company.

BULLETINS BY
PHONE A SUCCESSOver Eight Thousand Farmers in the State Receive Daily Weather Reports.

Dr. Wilson, director of the weather bureau in Milwaukee, has been visiting some of the volunteer weather stations throughout the state. He also made inquiry among the farmers as to the efficiency of the weather reports as sent out by telephone companies similar to the service given to the country subscribers of the Rock county phone in Janesville.

He found that farmers are generally pleased and take a practical interest in knowing the forecast each day. At the exchanges he was told that if for any reason, the forecast is not received by the farmers, numerous calls may be expected for it during the day. Several letters have been received by Dr. Wilson praising this new plan of the department.

Render a Valuable Service. When Dr. Wilson was ordered by the department to start this system of information, he was not told that it would be discontinued at any time, and he has no reason to think it will be discontinued during the winter. The practical use of the forecast will not be great during the winter to the farmers, as it is during the summer. It will be of practical use during the gathering of crops, and the shipment of them, especially of such crops as potatoes, apples and other perishable products. During the winter, country people have to go back and forth to town and they have to do much outdoor work, so that even then the forecasts may be of more use than they are at any time to city people.

To Be Had by Asking. It is impossible to guess how many thousands of people in Wisconsin receive the weather forecast every morning, or how many may receive it if they want it. The number of farmers' telephones to which it is sent between 9 and 10 o'clock every morning is 8,367. The forecast is not sent to the owners of telephones in the cities and villages, but these persons may get it by asking "central." The information is sent out of the Chicago bureau at 8:30 o'clock by telegraph to the numerous telephone exchanges and it is expected to be at once sent over the telephone lines. The telephone companies are glad to popularize their lines by sending the forecast, and most of them have adopted the plan of printing on their exchange list or book the information that patrons will be given free the government weather report each morning.

PROPHETS OF EVIL.

That Wall Street has had a severe shaking financially during the past two or three months, is recognized by every one who has taken any interest in current events.

The water has been so effectively squeezed out of stocks that many fake companies have been driven out of existence, and others that were overcapitalized have found their level. While the money lost has been largely of the speculative class, yet it is not at all surprising that it has had a depressing influence on the great money center.

It is difficult for Wall Street to realize that the great outside business world is engaged in legitimate enterprises, and that the wheels of commerce continue to move with monotonous regularity in spite of disturbances in the stock market. Henry Clews the New Yorker banker, says in a recent letter devoted to the situation:

"The prophets of evil are now actively engaged preaching business reaction. Such may no doubt be expected, in a reasonable degree, but it is well to bear in mind that no such excesses have occurred in the commercial world as were so disastrous to the financial community. While industry and trade must inevitably share the financial reaction, there is no reason for expecting the same degree of depression in the former as has been endured in the latter. Depression is always the after-effect of over-doing or over production, and when the industrial markets become so surfeited with goods as the financial markets were with securities then we may expect serious reaction in general business. As it is, the latter is suffering chiefly from sympathy with Wall Street, and also from high costs of production. The first cause affects new enterprises, of which we are having rather too many, and the second is largely due to the labor movement. Every day it is becoming more and more apparent that industry is being checked by high priced raw material and labor; for consumers cannot afford present high prices, and some form of readjustment will have to take place before the equilibrium between supply and demand is restored to normal. This is not an immediate contingency, but it is one to be kept in sight; one to be anticipated not with fear but with satisfaction as an approach to a more normal and substantial basis than we have been working under for the last two or three years."

High price material in iron structural work, and high priced labor in this department, coupled with labor disturbances have retarded building to such an extent that the summer of 1904 has not been noted for large development along this line. These conditions have vastly more to do with prospective hard times through out the country than the stock flurry in Wall Street. In sizing up the situation, Mr. Clews says:

"As to other conditions, they are generally favorable. The money market seems likely to escape any serious disturbance this fall; and, if the present conservative policy of those who control the purse strings continues, we will probably witness a return to cheap money when the harvest is over and funds come back from the west. The crop question is at last practically settled. Damage reports proved exaggerated; the last few weeks provided admirable weather, and a yield of not less than 2,000,000,000 bushels of corn is predicted, if not more. This means a big tonnage for the railroads and good times for the farmers in general. A favorable feature was the break in the grain markets and consequent large export orders, which somewhat counteracted the scarcity of produce bills due to a late cotton movement; this in turn tending to defer gold imports. Our banks however, are in strong position, showing better reserve than a year ago; a situation true not only of New York but of the reserve centers throughout the country. The break in the British cabinet over questions of international trade policy can have little stock market effect, for the simple reason that the British people, no matter how they feel about foreign competition, cannot afford to change their free trade policy; and it will be months before their will can be expressed at the polls.

The immediate course of the market is uncertain. Short sales are certainly dangerous; but no continued rise seems possible until present market existences have passed. Adverse elements have been amply discounted and good securities are intrinsically cheap; still we are not likely to witness more than a good trading market until liquidation is finished and easier money in sight. These conditions Wall Street will discount in advance as usual, and perhaps when least expected.

PRODUCTION OF COAL IN 1902

A preliminary statement showing the coal production of the United States, prepared by Mr. Edward W. Parker, Statistician, has just been issued by the United States Geological Survey. The statistics, though subject to slight revision and correction because of a few incomplete returns, are sufficiently correct to enable comparisons to be made between the production of 1902 and that of former years.

For the first time in the history of the United States the production of coal has reached a total of over 300,000,000 short tons, showing an actual output of 300,039,650 tons of 2000 pounds, valued at $373,133,842. Of this total the output of anthracite coal amounted to 36,855,719 long tons (equivalent to 11,289,535 short tons), which as compared with the production of 60,247,560 long tons in 1901, shows a decrease of 23,376,350 long tons, or almost 40 per cent. This decrease as is well known, was due entirely to the suspension of operations by the strike in the anthracite region from May 10 to October 23, a little over five months. Had it not been for the strike, which practically stopped production in the anthracite region for this length of time, the output for the year would probably have attained a total of over 350,000,000 long tons. The value at the mines of the product in 1902 amounted to $81,016,527, as against $112,540,020 in 1901 a loss of over 27 per cent. The average value of the marketed coal sold during the year at the mines was $2.65. The comparatively small amount of anthracite which was mined during the strike, and which brought such exorbitant prices, did not have the effect on the total production that might have been expected.

SECRETARY SHAW'S ADVICE.

Whatever may be the opinion of the timeliness of Secretary Shaw's recent action in regard to the payment now of the bonds maturing next February, the entire business world is indebted to him for the clear distinction drawn by him between speculation and legitimate enterprise in his speech at Newport News. Nothing could be more admirable than this:

"Go home," he said to the bankers, "and tell your merchants and your manufacturers and your railroad people that you are still doing business at the old stand and expect to remain. Stand by the business interests of the country and all will be well. The prosperity of the American people is not measured by the price of stocks and bonds, but by the output of our farms and our factories and profitable employment of labor."

The bankers who take this advice will give a practical proof of their courage and their patriotism, and nothing will serve more to maintain confidence, and keep the country in the path of prosperity than a banking policy based upon this advice of Secretary Shaw.—Wall Street Journal.

The above item of advice from the Secretary of the Treasury is timely and wholesome. Confidence begets confidence and there is no reason why the nation should be disturbed because Wall Street is in the throes of a speculation panic.

The crop just harvested is above the average. Labor is employed at good wages and all industries are in a prosperous condition. Wisconsin is the only state that is being troubled by an erratic governor, and the Badger state will stand the shock.

The county fairs will soon be a thing of the past and the governor can find other employment.

The president is again on duty at the White house, and there will be something doing when congress convenes in extra session next month. The question of labor and the open shop, so far as government employees is concerned, is practically settled, as the president can not afford to recede from the stand he has taken.

Walking Delegate Parks carried the day at the Kansas City convention, but the Iron Workers' union is likely to lose 10,000 members as the result of a number of large organizations have served notice of withdrawal. Parks is a disturbing element and should have been left behind the bars at Sing Sing.

The Sultan of Turkey is likely to have his hands full before he gets through with his family troubles. European powers are inclined to take a hand, and Uncle Sam's war ships are within easy call. Turkey is suffering for civilization more than any thing else, and the empire may be on the eve of a better era.

The wealthy New Yorkers who own a large preserve in the Adirondacks, are not received very kindly by the natives, and a reign of terror is the result. The Rockefeller have fled to the city, and others are following suit.

The man who shot his wife in church at La Crosse last Sunday, has given the people of that city another excuse for not going to church.

GAME FUND FOR STATE LICENSES

THE GAME WARDENS MUST SEE TO THEIR PORTIONS.

CIRCULAR LETTERS ARE SENT

County Clerks Are Asked To Tell What They Know of Game Licenses Not Paid.

From all appearances it would appear that the finances of the governor's private henchmen—the game wardens—are running a little bit behind the expense accounts and that all diligence must be taken to keep up the average. The county clerks of Wisconsin have been exhorted to see that the factional campaign caucus fund of the governor may suffer no loss. This is substantially the effect of a circular letter sent out from the office of Game Warden Overbeck at the capitol to the county clerks of the state.

Ask Report
The letter calls upon the clerks to report to the warden whether as many resident hunting licenses are to be issued in their counties during the coming season or not, to report what localities in the respective counties the hunters are less numerous than a year ago and promises that the deputy wardens will be so distributed as to cause licenses to be taken out. The plainly stated purpose of the letter is not to bring violators of the law to punishment, but "in order that the list of resident hunting licenses issued this fall shall equal in number those issued a year ago."

$80,000 Wanted
A year ago the hunting license fund, made up of the dollar apiece paid by the takers of resident hunting licenses and also contributed to in part by the sale of property confiscated by the deputy wardens, amounted to nearly $80,000. It is an established fact that the deputy wardens, to support whom this fund is devoted by the laws of the state, were active in the caucuses and always in the interests of Governor La Follette. The hunting license fund has naturally come in this way to be looked upon as the factional caucus campaign fund of Governor La Follette and his coterie.

Nelson Letter
The purpose of the letter is taken to be to make as much money available this year and next for the prosecution of the governor's plans through the agency of the deputy game wardens as was available last year, and more if possible. The letter is signed by the office deputy, Charles D. Nelson, to whom Warden Overbeck confides practically all the duties of the office, the warden himself seldom making an appearance at Madison.

The Rumors
It is rumored that the letter and determination to bring as much money into the campaign fund as possible was instigated in the executive office, close to the governor, if not by himself, but there is no way of verifying this. The letter, a copy of which was sent out to each county clerk in the state is as follows:

The Letter
Dear Sir: In order that the list of resident hunting licenses issued this fall shall equal in number those issued a year ago this department wishes to get a statement from each county clerk of what the estimated number of licenses in his county will be for this season and what portion of the county, if any, will fall short. We will try to get our wardens into these sections and by diligent work hope to bring out enough licenses to equal the number issued during the preceding seasons. Will you kindly favor us with such estimate for your county? The favor will be appreciated. Yours truly

SUBSCRIBERS ARE STILL WANTED

Mr. Victor Mills has returned from Chicago where he spent Sunday and is again taking up the work of raising subscriptions for the proposed Hook and Eye company. He was much encouraged over the subscription of two thousand shares by Dr. Wiggins, a cousin of Dr. Farnsworth, who, although not living in Janesville is much interested in the city and the prospects of the Hook and Eye company.

Well Recommended
At Mr. Mills' request several gentlemen who have been investigating the concern wrote to Chicago banks last week asking for information as to Mr. Mills. The answers were more than satisfactory and Mr. Mills and the Hook and Eye company were warmly recommended to the people of Janesville. Mr. Mills hopes before the end of the week to have the requisite sum subscribed and will then at once begin work of moving his plant to this city.

Too Many Kickers
One merchant said today: "The proposition is a good one. I have no doubts on the subject but there have been too many kickers made have done wondrous work in the manufacturer gets a bonus for moving he should not object to others receiving the same chance. Mr. Mills has not only the documents to show his goods are desired by the market but his references are the best and give him the best possible recommendations that a man could desire."

Painters Attention: There will be a special meeting of union 177 of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, tonight at 7:30 sharp. All members are expected to be present. Wm. G. Smith, Sec.

FINALS TO BE PLAYED TODAY

McGiffen Event Is Causing Much Interest—An Ideal Day—Started at Two O'clock.

With an almost ideal day, the finals of the McGiffen prize are proving unusually interesting. Handicaps were arranged and the couple making the finest holes of the long course in the fewest strokes wins the handsome trophy. Mr. McGiffen won the steeplechase by J. P. Baker, the final being between himself and H. H. King. The match was won with a score of two up and one to play.

There will be no more club suppers at the links this year, owing to the fact that Frank Kent has returned to Madison to resume his studies at the university. The drawing of partners for the McGiffen event took place last evening and this play is holding the chief interest in golfing circles at the present time. The finals will begin this afternoon, the first pairs being started promptly at two o'clock. The result of the drawing last evening was as follows: Al Schaller and Mrs. J. C. Page vs. Wilson Lane and Mrs. W. G. Wheeler; A. J. Harris and Mrs. H. R. King vs. F. E. Fifield and Catherine Fifield; H. G. Carter and Elizabeth Schickler vs. H. R. King and Mrs. A. J. Harris; Fred Schaller and Wilma McGiffen vs. Chas. E. Dunn and Mrs. P. L. Myers; J. P. Baker and Mrs. John Phillips vs. H. S. McGiffen and Mabel Jackman.

ART STUDY CO. WORKMEN STRIKE

DISCHARGE OF SUPERINTENDENT HILLS CAUSES TROUBLE.

SIXTY HANDS NOT AT WORK

Manager Phillips Does Not Anticipate Any Trouble in Settling Matter.

Owing to certain disagreements between the president of the Art Study company, Mr. Phillips, and the superintendent, E. W. Hills, the latter was given his discharge yesterday afternoon and a week's salary in advance in lieu of a preliminary notice. This morning a number of the skilled employees of the concern, who came with the company from Chicago, went to Mr. Phillips in a body and requested the superintendent's reinstatement. This was refused and the men with a number of others who joined the company after its arrival in this city, stopped work and left.

Shops Closed
As those who went out were mostly heads of departments, the work ceased generally for today and a number of other employees were given the day off. Altogether about sixty hands are out of employment. Mr. Phillips stated that unless the strikers returned by tomorrow morning a new superintendent would be secured and skilled help called from other cities to fill the vacant places so that the work would continue as usual. He anticipates no serious trouble with the men.

Mr. Hills' Version
E. W. Hills when interviewed this morning said that he had been given a half-day vacation yesterday and drove to Milton. When he returned in the evening he found his overalls with an envelope in one of the pockets. The envelope contained his salary for the previous week and also for a week in advance and was accompanied by a brief note stating that his services would no longer be required and that the advance pay was given him in lieu of the customary week's notice.

Meeting This Afternoon
A meeting of the sixty employees of the factory was held in the Assembly hall this afternoon. Manager Phillips has given notice that all places vacant tomorrow morning will be filled with outsiders.

MARSHAL HOGAN IS BETTER TODAY

Sheriff Appleby said that Mrs. Hogan felt so much encouraged about her husband's condition that she had returned from Chicago yesterday to take care of the house and will return either today or tomorrow. Mr. Hogan was able to sit up this morning and take some nourishment and those who are caring for him are much encouraged over his condition.

THIEVES ARE ON WAR PATH AGAIN

One "Lock Manipulator" Tries To Get Into a South Main Street Residence.

"If I could have found my trousers, I would have got the man," said E. Heller, this morning when telling of an attempted burglary at his house, 258 South Main street, last evening. "The first intimation of anything being wrong about the house was when Mrs. Heller, who happened to be awake at midnight heard a peculiar noise at the front door." She hastily awoke her husband who, securing a revolver, but clad only in his night robe, went to the front door of the house. Another member of the household, peering through a crack in the curtain, saw a heavy set man of medium height endeavoring to force the lock. He had already unfastened the lock of the screen door. At this juncture, the thief evidently became suspicious, for he ceased operations and as the door was opened from the inside made good his escape into the darkness. Efforts were immediately made to telephone the circumstances to police headquarters but no guardians of the peace could be found.

CITY TO HAVE 203 NEW LAMPS

ELECTRIC LIGHT CO. BUSY INSTALLING THEM.

WORK AT THE UPPER DAM

Is Progressing in a Most Satisfactory Manner—Trouble Last Sunday.

Within ten days all of the old style electric street lights in the city of Janesville will be relegated to the junk heap and 203 modern lamps will light the way for nocturnal travelers. The work of changing the lamps is being done in the Second and Third wards today.

To Abate Nuisance
Most of the electricity now used is being furnished by water power and when the six new turbine wheels are installed at the upper dam it is expected that the engine will seldom be required. This in a measure will do away with the smoke nuisance. Supt. E. H. Korst says that with good weather the masonry at the dam should be above water within a month.

Trouble Last Sunday
Trouble at the power plants was responsible for considerable inconvenience to residents Sunday. The street cars were out of commission from 2:30 to 3:00 and from 4:30 to 5:00 in the afternoon and many of the lights were also out. The Monterey plant has been furnishing the power for the street cars and many of the lights during the past week. The power is transmitted to the plant just below the Milwaukee street bridge, from which point it is distributed. The current breaker at the latter place blew out Sunday and the governor at Monterey got out of order, and these accidents were responsible for the failure in the power.

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Three rogues, Hayle, Kitwater and Codd, meet at Singapore. The latter two have learned of existence of hidden treasure at Senkor-Wat-old, Burmese ruins near Chinese border. Hayle only half believes account, but nevertheless agrees to join in search.

PART II.—Reaching Senkor-Wat, the men make their way through the ancient streets and toward the once splendid palace. Toward dusk after a most tedious search they come upon secret entrance to underground vaults, in which are discovered great quantities of bar gold and uncut rubies and sapphires. Hayle fills both hands with gems and the men make their way outside again. On reaching camp they find their two Burmese servants slain and horribly mutilated. Hayle secures treasure and steals away into the jungle.

PART III.—Utterly exhausted and unconscious, Hayle is found by English officers near frontier station of Nampoung. As soon as able he leaves for Hongkong and thence to England.

PART IV.—Two months later another officer at Nampoung, while out on a hunt, comes across Kitwater and Codd. Kitwater explains they were traders who had fallen into hands of Chinese who had put out his own eyes and pulled out Codd's tongue. After recovering somewhat from effects of exposure and tortures they set off in pursuit of Hayle.

CHAPTER I.—George Fairfax relates how he became a detective in Australia and finally came to open up an office in London.

CHAPTER II.—Kitwater and Codd try to secure Fairfax's services. They represent themselves as missionaries returned from China where a rich native patron turned over to them on his death a great fortune which was stolen by a guest (Hayle) at the mission. Fairfax almost concludes not to take case.

graph of him in your possession, I suppose?"

"No," replied Kitwater, shaking his head. "Gideon Hayle is not the sort of man to allow himself to be photographed, and what's more you must remember that when we reached Nampoung, the station on the frontier of Burmah, we had scarcely a rag upon our backs. Any goods and chattels we might once have possessed were in the hands of the Chinese. They had robbed us of everything, except what that arch thief, Hayle, had already stolen from us."

As he said this, another look such as I had seen on the occasion of his previous visit spread over his face.

"The robber, the thief," he hissed, almost trembling in his sudden excess of rage; "when I get hold of him he shall rue his treachery to the day of his death. Upwards of a quarter of a million of money he stole from us, and where is it now? Where is my sight, and where is Codd's power of speech? All gone, and he is free. 'Vengeance is Mine,' saith the Lord, but I want to repay it myself. I want to—"

Here he leant across the table and turned his sightless eyes upon me.

"This is certainly a curious sort of missionary," I said to myself as I watched him. "He may be smitten on one cheek, but I scarcely fancy he would be content to turn the other to the striker."

At this moment Coddly leant forward in his chair, and placed his hand upon his friend's arm. The effect was magical. His fit of impotent rage died down as suddenly as it had sprung up, and immediately he became again the quiet, suave, smooth-spoken individual who had first entered my office.

"I must beg your pardon, Mr. Fairfax," he said, in a totally different voice to that in which he had just spoken. "When I remember how we have been wronged, I am apt to forget myself. I trust you will forgive me?"

"I will do so willingly," I answered. "You have certainly won the right to be excused if you entertain a feeling of resentment for the man who has treated you so shamefully. And now to resume our conversation?"

"What were you about to say?"

"I was about to ask you the number and description of the stones of which he robbed you. You told me they numbered 93 in all, if I remember aright. Can you tell me how many there were of each?"

"Forty-eight rubies and 45 sapphires," he replied without a moment's hesitation. "The rubies were uncut and of various sizes, ranging perhaps from ten to eighty carats. They were true rubies, not spinels, remember that. The sapphires ran from 15 carats to 60, and there was not a flaw amongst them."

"Has Hayle any knowledge of the value of precious stones?"

"There's not a keener judge in the east. He would be a cunning man who would succeed in taking him in about the value of anything from a moonstone to a ruby."

"In that case he would, in all probability, know where to place them to the best advantage?"

"You may be sure that was his intention in coming to England. But we have tried Hutton Garden and can hear nothing of him there."

"He may have disposed of some of them on the continent," I said. "However, we will soon clear that point up. The size of the larger stones is so unusual that they would be certain to attract attention. And now one other question. Are you aware whether he has any friends or relatives in England?"

"So far as we know he has not a single relative in the world," Kitwater replied. "Have you ever heard of one, Coddly?"

The little man shook his head, and then, taking the other's hand, tapped upon it with his fingers in the manner I have already described.

"He says Hayle had a sister once, of whom he was very fond." The tapping upon the hand continued, and once more Kitwater translated:

"She was a cripple, and lived in a small house off the Brompton road. She died while Hayle was in North Borneo; is not that so, little man?"

Codd nodded his head to show that Kitwater had interpreted him correctly. I then made some inquiries as to the missing man's habits. So far the description I had had of him was commonplace in the extreme.

"Do you know whether he shipped on board the Jemadar for England under his own name, or under an assumed one?"

"He booked his passage as George Hertram," Kitwater replied. "We know that is so, for we made inquiries at Hongkong."

I next noted the name and address of the vessel's owner, and resolved to pay him a visit next morning. It would be hard if I could not learn from him something concerning Mr. Hayle, and where he had gone on landing.

"I think those are all the questions I want to ask you at present," I said, closing my note-book. "It would be as well perhaps for you to furnish me with your address, in order that I may communicate with you, should it be necessary."

"At present," said Kitwater, "we are staying with my niece at the village of Bishopstowe in Surrey. My late brother was vicar of the parish for many years, and he left his daughter a small property in the neighborhood. They tell me it is a pretty place, but, as you are aware, I unfortunately cannot see it, and my friend Codd here cannot talk to me about it."

He heaved a heavy sigh and then rose to depart.

"I must again express my gratitude to you, Mr. Fairfax," he said, "for having consented to take up the case. I feel certain you will ultimately be successful. I will leave you to imagine with what anxiety we shall await any news you may have to give us."

"I will communicate with you as soon as I have anything to report," I answered. "You may rely upon my doing my best to serve you. By the way, are you aware that your niece called upon me this morning?"

He gave a start of surprise. "No, I certainly did not know it," he replied. "She said nothing to us of such an intention. I know that she is heart and soul with us in our desire to find Hayle. But since you have seen her you probably know that?"

"I think I do," I returned, for some reason almost abruptly.

"She is a good girl," said Kitwater, and then took from his pocket an envelope which he handed to me.

"By the way, I brought this with me," he said, "in the hope that you should be able to induce you to accede to our wishes. Inside you will find a £100 note, which should be sufficient to cover any preliminary expenses. If you need more, perhaps you will be kind enough to communicate with me at once, and it shall be sent you. A receipt can be forwarded to me at your leisure."

I thanked him and placed the envelope upon the table. In my own mind I felt that it would be an easy matter to guess whence the sum had come, and for a reason that I could not then analyze, and therefore am unable to describe, the thought irritated me.

Having assured them that the amount would be quite sufficient, in the event of nothing unforeseen happening, to last for some considerable time to come, I conducted them to the door, again repeating the promise that I would communicate with them so soon as I had anything to report. If I had only known then, that at the very moment when they stepped into the street, the man they wanted me to find for them, and whom they hated so desperately, was standing in a shop on the other side of the road, keeping an eye on my door, and evidently watching for their departure, how much trouble and vexation of spirit we should all have been saved. But I did not know this until long afterwards, and then of course the information came too late to be of any service to us.

Next morning I was early at the office, being desirous of winding up another little matter before I turned my attention to the new affair. One of my subordinates had just returned from the continent whither I had sent him to keep an eye on a certain pseudo-French marquis with whom I had dealings some time back.

He reported that the gentleman in question had broken the bank at Monte Carlo, had staked and lost all his winnings next day, and had shot himself on the promenade on the evening following. With his death the affair, on which I had confidently expected to be employed, came to an end. I could not say that I was altogether sorry.

"I shall want you to leave on Friday, Turner, for St. Petersburg," I said, when he had finished his report and I had commented upon it. "Do you remember Paulus Sevanovitch, who was concerned in that attempt to defraud the Parisian Jewellers, Maurel & Co., two years ago?"

"Yes, sir, I remember him perfectly," Turner replied. "A tall, burly man, with a bushy beard, the top of his little finger on the left hand missing, and a long white scar over his right eyebrow."

"The same," I answered. "I see you have not forgotten him. Well, I want you to find him out, and let me have an exact account of his movements during the next three weeks. The office will arrange your expenses in the usual way, and you had better leave by the mail train. In all probability I shall see you off."

"Very good, sir," the man responded, and withdrew.

He had scarcely gone before one of my clerks entered the room and handed me a card. On it was printed the name of Mr. Edward Bayley, and in the left-hand bottom corner was the announcement that he was the managing director of the Santa Cruz Mining company of Poroda in the Argentine Republic.

"Show the gentleman in, Walters," I said.

In a few minutes a tall, handsome man, irreproachably turned out, entered the office. He seated himself in a chair the clerk placed for him, put his hat and umbrella on another, and then turned to me.

"My card has made you familiar with my name, Mr. Fairfax," he began, "and doubtless, if you are at all familiar with mines and mining, you are acquainted with the name of the company I have the honor to represent."

"I am very much afraid the mining market does not possess very much interest for me," I replied. "I have to work so hard for my money, that when I have got it I prefer to invest it in something a little more reliable. May I inquire the nature of your business with me?"

"I have come to see you, Mr. Fairfax," he said, speaking very impressively, and regarding me deliberately as he did so, "on rather a delicate subject. Before I explain what it is, may I ask that you will treat what I am about to tell you as purely confidential?"

"My business is invariably a confidential one," I answered for the second time in two days. "I venture to think that this room has heard more secrets than almost any other in England. But though they say walls have ears, I have never heard it said that they have tongues."
